

I can read on my own.

I know what to do if I
get stuck.

I can understand that different kinds of sentences can affect the meaning.

I can identify issues in texts and talk about them.

I know the main features of fiction and non-fiction texts.

I can identify the language the writer has used to create moods and build up tension.

I can guess why events and actions have happened using evidence from the text.

I can guess what will happen because of what I already know about the text.

I can use non-fiction
features to find information in texts.

I can identify the differences between different non-fiction
texts.

I know how paragraphs
are used to organise ideas.

I can discuss the effect of language on mood and tension

I can compare texts with others of the same, and different, type

